D'MORSE'S INVICORATINE CORDIAL

FOR GENITAL BEBILITY, IMPOTENCY, INCONTINENCE, OR NOCTURNAL EMISSIONS, &c.—The as-The Nation, of Motival and Albert and State an any that has authentically received the sanction of the Medical Faculty. The WONDERFUL VEGETABLE PRODUCTION of which this medicine is composed has been tested, and its virtues proclaimed, by the highest names of the faculty of London, Paris, and the chief cities of Europe, and the proclaimed to the faculty of London, Paris, and the chief cities of Europe, and the chief cities of the faculty of London, Paris, and the chief cities of Europe, as well as by eminent Physicians in this country. It is the only infallible remedy for NERVOUS, HEAD, and MIND COMPLAINTS—the mental physic so long sought for and mever before found—the only agent that can administrate to MIND DISEASES. It will remove bit nervous affections, DEPRESSION, EXCITEMENT, incapacity to study or business, loss of MEMORY, CONFUSION, thoughts of self-destruction, fear of insanity, &c. It will restore the appetite, renew the health of those who have destroyed it by Sonsual Excesses or evil practices. It has been said by some that these disorders, emissions, &c., were incurable. This, however, is not the fact.

DR. MORSE'S INVIGORATING CORDIAL has cured, and is constantly curing, these complaints—relieving the mental and bodily incapacity of the unfortunate sufferer, as the following testimony of the names received will conclusively show:

mental and boulty incapacity of the unit of the confusively show:

Dr. Woodward, of ——, Maszachusetts Insane Hospital, writes of one of his patients being cured by using this Cordial thus: "It gives me pleasure to inform you that one of my patients, while in Boston, procured some of your Cordial. He tells me that he has not had a single emission since he commenced taking it, while before he had two or three a week. When he applied to me," says Dr. W., "I thought it hardly possible for him ever to regain his full strength. I prescribed the usual medicine used in those cases in the hospital, but they had no effect. In the mean time he purchased some of your Cordial, which has effected a cure I am sure no other medicine would. I shall ever recommend it, whenever an opportunity occurs."

The nature of the maladies relieved by this Cordial are generally such as to leave the publication of certificates of curse curt of the question. The proprietor could produce a host of the most conclusive testimony to show that the great reputation it enjoys was not accidentally obtsined, but is firmly based upon it positive and apparently mirraculous virtues. In all directions are to be found the happy parents of healthy offsprings, who would not have been so but for this extraordinary preparation. And it is equally potent for many diseases for which it is recommended.

have not, in a single instance that has been authenticated given their sanction to any other preparation for the above complaints. It has, in many violent and desperate case-effected radical cures, after patients had been abandoned, and their condition pronounced hapeless by medical practitioners of high professional character.

THE COMMON EXPRESSION

or those who have used this Extract is: "I had heard your Cordial highly spoken of, but was one of the incredulous in regard to its merits, having tried various medicines sold for the same purpose, (different Sarsaparillas,) without deriving any benefit. I had almost given up all hope of obtaining relief, when I purchased some of your Cordial. I had no faith whatever of its benefiting me—but it has. I feel stronger, have had no emissions since, although it is not three weeks. I am satisfied that the half a dozen bottles I took will cure me."

Another says: "I had consulted several distinguished physicians. Some said I could not be cured; afters prescribed this thing and that; but I found no relic until I procured some of your Cordial. I must say it completely cured me."

Another says: "I was surprised at the effect your Cordial had. Why had I not heard of it before? It would have saved me so much expense, besides years of mental and bodily suffering."

CAUTION.—Ask for Dr. Morse's Cordial, and take no

OAUTION.—ARE 107 Dr. Morse's Cordial, and take no other, as there are worthless imitations which its unrivalled excellence, fame, and popularity have brought into the market. It will not hurt the most delicate female, but do good. Beware of all other Cordials, &c., and try only this. It is put up in plat bottles, with the words Dr. MORSE'S INVIGORATING CORDIAL blown on the glass. Price §3 per bottle; two bottles, $5; six bottles, $12; and $24 per dozen.

DR. JOHNSTÖN,

Member of the Royal College of Surgeons, London, Graduate from one of the most eminent Colleges of the United States, and the greater part of whose life has been spent in the Hospitals of London, Paris, Philadelphia, and elsewhere, has effected some of the most astoniahing cures that were ever known. Many troubled with ringing in the ears and head when asleep, great nervousness, being alarmed at sudden sounds, and bashfulness, with frequent blushing, attended sometimes with derangement of mind, were cured immediately.

Dr. J. addresses all those who have injured themselves by private and improper indulgences, that secret and solitary tabit, which ruin both body and mind, unfitting them for ither business or society.

These are some of the sad and mind, which is the same of the sad and mind. habit, which ruin both body and mind, unfitting them for either business or society.

These are some of the sad and melantholy effects produced by early habits of youth, viz: Weakness of the Back and Jimbs, Pains in the Head, Dinness of Sight, Loss of Muscular Power, Palpitation of the Heart, Dyspepsia, Nervous Irritability, Derangement of the Digestive Functions, General Deblity, Symptoms of Consumption, &c., &c.

Mendally.—The fearful effects on the mind are much to be dreaded. Loss of Memory, Confusion of Hess, Depression of Spirits, Evil Forebodings, Aversion of Society, Self Distrust, Love of Solitude, Timidity, &c., are some of the evils produced.

Love of Solitude, Timidity, &c., are some of the evils produced.

NERVOUS DEBILITY.

Weakness of the system, Nervous Debility and premature decay generally arise from the destructive habit of youth, that solitary practice so fatal to the healthful existence of man, and it is the young who are most apt to become its Victims, from an ignorance of the dangers to which they subject themselves. Parents and Guardians are often miscled with respect to the cause or source of disease in their sons and wards. Ains! how often do they ascribe to other auses the wasting of the frame, Palpitation of the Heart, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, derangement of the Nervous System, Cough, and Symptoms of Consumption; also those serious Mental effects, such as loss of Memory, Depression of Spirits, or peculiar fits of Melancholy, when the truth is, they have been caused by indulging in Perniclous but alluring practices, destructive to both Body and Mind. Thus are swept from existence thousands who might have been of use to society. it. JOHNSTON'S INVIGORATING REMEDY FOR ORbit. JOHNSTON'S INVIGORATING REMEDY FOR ORGANIC WEAKNESS.

This grand and important Remedy has restored strength and vigor to thousands of the most debilitated individuals, many who had lost all hopes, and been abandoned to die. By its complete invigoration of the Nervous System, the whole faculties become restored to their proper power and functions, and the fallen fabric of life is raised up to beauty, consistency and duration, upon the ruins of an emeciated and premature decline, to sound and pristine health. Oh, how happy have hundreds of misguided youths been made, who have been suddenly restored to health from the devostations of those terrific maladies which result from indiscretion! Such persons, before contemplating

He who places himself under the care of Dr. Johnston may religiously confide in his honor as a Gentleman, and confidently rely upon his skill as a Physician.

The many thousands crowd at this institution within the last ten years, and the non-rous important Surgical Operations performed by Dr. J., witnessed by the Reporters of the papers and many other percons, notices of which have appeared egain and again before the public, is a sufficient quara ity that the afflicted will find a skilful and honorable physician.

From the Friend of Youth. A Lesson from the Rain Drops.

BY HANNAH LLOYD.

A little boy stood at his mother's door One windy and boisterous day; The rain in torrents down did pour, And he could not go out to play; So he watched the trickling rain drops fall, As they splashed against the garden wall.

He grumbled, and pouted, and thought it was hard That a shower should come just then; He meant to fly his kite in the yard, He said, with his Cousin Ben; And now, instead, he would have to stay And more in the house the livelong day

So he hung about near the window seat Just as cross as cross could be, But after a while he went to sleep And a wonderful dream had he When he awoke again, I ween, A pleasanter boy could not be seen

He dreamed that he owned a large old farm, Had horses and cows to feed; That he'd planted some oats to store in his barn, And sprinkled some clover seed. And he thought he was growing to be quite old, Was tall and manly, and stout and bold.

And he dreamed he waited and watched in vain For his oats to ripen fast; The corn he weeded again and again, In hopes it would grow at last, While his clover drooped its empty head,

And his barley was withered and almost dead. Then sadly he turned to his old farm door, And he sighed while he said. " Ah, me ! I wish it would rain, and I wish it would pour, But never a cloud do I see

The thirsty ground is so hard and dry.

The grain I have planted must surely die. But he seemed to hear some one who whispered low. "I hope it won't shower to night, I only care for myself, you know, And I mean to fly my kite."

Then he changed to a little boy again. And awoke while it still was pattering rain He looked around, and then springing up. He opened again the door; Each flower held up its tiny cup,

And the Earth, though drinking the rain drops up, Still seemed to be asking for more He was very glad he had slept and dreamed, For he felt how solfish he must have seemed To think alone of his trifling play.

When the earth was so thirsty and dry And because he must stay in the house all day. To wish for a cloudless sky. He was happy now, nor forgot age n The legson taught by the falling rain

Life in a Powder Mill. Dickens thus describes a visit to the Powder Mill of Hounslow, near London:

In this silent region, amid whose ninetyeven work places no human voice ever breaks upon the ear, and where indeed no human form is seen, except in the isolated house in which his alloated task is performed, there are secreted upward of two hundred and fifty work people. They are a peculiar race, not, of course, by nature, in most cases, but by the the highest honor the people can bestow. His habit of years. Calm, prudent, wise, and humane in wishes to communicate anything to another, or to ask for anything from somebody at a short distance, he must go there; he is never permitted to shout or call out. There is a particular reason for this last regulation. Amid all this silence whenever a shout does occur, everybody knows that some imminent danger is expected the next moment, and all rush away headlong from the direction of the shout. As to running towards it to offer any assistance, as common to all other cases, it is thoroughly understood that none can be afforded. An accident here is immediate, and beyond remedy. If the shouting be continued for some time, (for a man might be drowning in a river.) that might cause one or two of the boldest to return; but and character, offered him a seat in his Cabinet this would be a very rare occurrence. It is by no means to be inferred that the men are selfish and insensible to the perils of each other; on the contrary, they have the greatest consideration for each other, as well as for their employers, and think of the danger to the lives of others, and of the property at stake at all times, and more especially in all the more dangerous houses.' The proprietors of the various gunpowder mills all display the same consideration for each other, and whenever any improvement tending to lessen danger is discovered by one, it is immediately communicated to all others. The wages of the men are good, and the hours very short; no artificial lights are ever used in the works. wash themselves-black white, and bronze and leave the mills at 31; in the afternoon, winter and summer.

The New York Express says:

Henry Clay's friends, four years ago, felt as indignant as Mr. Webster's friends now feel. They held their rejection meetings in Vauxhall Garden, in ward meetings, in the city and in the country. They appealed to Mr. Clay to lead them on against their party. And he refused, as we feel sure Mr. Webster will yet refuse, to stand at the head of any but the true Whig col-

Reunion of the Democracy.

Mercury, which says: "It will be observed that one of them rejoices over the reunion of the Democratic party. Now, this reunion, so far as it is real, is an amalgamation of the Union or Compromise, the Southern Rights and the Freesoil parties, and all of them professing to have given up no principle. It is quite clear, then, that the object of that union is nothing but party success in the approaching election, and that the South must share it (if indeed the South is not cheated of all share) with the Free-

The definition of that heterogeneous aggregate which styles itself the Democratic party seems to be as applicable now as when it was given by Mr. Calhoun, who spoke of it as a party held together by "the cohesive power of public plunder." Some gentlemen of the Southern Rights party do indeed claim the nomination of Pierce as their own work-a claim which the Van Buren wing of the party will not care to question, since the disciples of that school are quite willing to allow all such pretensions, provided they may thereby increase their chances of sharing more largely in the more substantial compensation which a party victory, if obtained, might place at the disposal of the official dispensers of the spoils. The suspicion which the Mercury intimates, that the South may be cheated ultimately, in the event of Pierce's election, is very natural under the circumstances -Balt. American.

Gen. Winfield Scott.

When we cast our eyes over the pages of Amer ican history, in almost every chapter of which, for the last twenty years, the name of Scott may be found, we can easily find a clew to the gener-ous feeling that now prevails in his favor. The people of this country are just and patriotic, and they will not fail when the opportunity offers, as it now does, to reward one who "has filled the measure of his country's glory." No living man has done so much for the fame and glory of America as Gen. Scott, and none better deserves the most stringent and necessary regulation, spected among the nations of the earth in a de-have subdued their minds and feelings to the phies he won in that wonderful campaign were not less the result of his prowess and kill in 2,100 vessels, 30,000 seamen, and capital to the battle than of his gentleness and humanity after

Herald General Scott is a "weak, vain man," say the opposition prints, but cautiously refrain from attempting to bring any instances of his weakness or his vanity. They are too wise to trust themselves to anything more than vague generalities. On the other hand, we have all needful proof that the old General is neither weak nor vain Madison, one of the purest of Presidents, habitbefore he was thirty years of age-the youngest man to whom a Cabinet appointment was ever tendered in this country. That is pretty good tendered in this country. That is pretty good evidence that President Madison did not consider him the very weak man that locofocos would now try to make him out. But Gen Scott declined the proffered honor; and why? From considerations of deference to his superiors; to older men, such as Brown, Macomb, Jackson, Gaines, and others-a fact which furnishes the best possible refutation of the absurd charge of vanity, so harped upon by the Democratic press. A man who, before the age of thirty, refused a Cabinet appointment, can neither be a very weak nor very vain man - Buffalo Rough Notes

The Scott feeling in Georgia is gradually man ifesting far more strength than was at first attributed to it. The Savannah Republican admits that a number of the Whigs who seceded from the Union State convention were for Scott in preference to Pierce. It is also stated by the Georgia Citizen that Judge Berrien and Judge Law, of Savannah, and Judge Warren, of Baker, all leading Whigs, have declared in favor of Gen Scott. A large and enthusiastic Scott meeting was held at the court-house in Macon on the evening of the 15th instant, at which a long and very able series of resolutions were adopted, ratifying the nominations and the platform of to any one, and I will show you a gentleman by nature and by practice, though he may in a noble manuer the position of the old hero of many battles as an eminently national and pa-triotic statesman.
